Artist Bio | Isaac Feuerman is an interdisciplinary designer and craftsperson originally from Los Angeles, California. His work aims to combine a respect for material and process with contemporary design aesthetics in the hope of creating work that is both functional and beautiful.

Isaac has studied at various glass institutes, including Penland School of Craft and Corning Museum of Glass. He was a visiting artist at Columbus College of Art in Ohio and a Resident Artist at STARworks, South Carolina in 2018.

As a fabricator he has had his hand in making work for a range of retailers including Nordstroms and the Smithsonian's Renwick Gallery.
